The friendship between the girls at the barn and their love for the animals is put to the test when strange events and underhanded scheming come into play. This series with its potent combination of horses, mystery and love launched with two titles in Fall 2012 and continues with two more in 2013.

CONTENT

A new riding stable opens for business very close to the Sunshine Ranch and creates competition for Sue, not only with lower prices but also with an ultramodern facilities. Even Hannah's best friend Myriam changes to the new place, because she thinks she'll improve her chances at the next tournament by doing so. The other girls at the barn are outraged and want to save the honor of Sunshine Ranch. And a promising opportunity makes itself known: Uwe Forster, a famous riding teacher, agrees to train Hannah for the next tournament. Hannah quickly makes such great strides that she is soon being treated as the secret favorite. Two days before the tournament, however, Hannah finds out that Forster has been having her practice an incorrect pattern. He systematically trained her to be the favorite and then sabotaged her so that Myriam would be the surprise winner. Forster and the other riding school hoped to make a lot of money by betting on the results. On the day of the tournament, however, Myriam stops in the middle of her performance and lets Hannah become the champion. The other stable is ruined, the Sunshine Ranch is saved, and the girls at the barn are together again.
