The hero of the story travels with a group of young people to a camp based in the Scottish castle Darkmore. Although he loves scary stories and especially horror films, the events that take place during this vacation are truly hair-raising. Interactive mystery: the readers themselves decide how the investigation should proceed.

- These interactive adventures allow the reader to determine what direction the story will take, giving kids a greater stake in the outcome
- Each book contains many different adventures
- Very successful concept

ABOUT THE SERIES

An interactive approach to books: one title - many different stories! Because the readers themselves are the heroes in these stories, they are very likely to identify with them. The Thousand Dangers books have long been among the most successful titles in our program. The series will be continued with two new books every year.

CONTENT

You are traveling by bus with a group of 30 young people to a camp based in the Scottish castle Darkmore. You like scary stories and love horror films, but the things that happen during this vacation are a bit too much...

The bus that is supposed to bring you all to Darkmore goes off the road at twilight and lands in a ditch. Fortunately, no one is hurt, but the creepy bus driver somehow disappears without a trace. You all see a sign reading "Castle Darkmore - 5 km" and decide to hike through the woods to Darkmore. Suddenly, the other children disappear and you are standing alone in the dark forest. You continue on the path and actually reach the castle. The castle owner, a mysterious man who somehow resembles the bus driver, opens the castle door. As you turn to run to the next town the drawbridge raises - you are trapped...and now your castle adventure begins in earnest!
