A mysterious stranger asks if you would like to accompany him on his search for a previously unknown Maya religious site. Will you go along or not? The wrong decision can put your very life in danger!

- These interactive adventures allow the reader to determine what direction the story will take, giving kids a greater stake in the outcome
- Each book contains many different adventures
- Very successful concept

ABOUT THE SERIES

An interactive approach to books: one title - many different stories! Because the readers themselves are the heroes in these stories, they are very likely to identify with them. The Thousand Dangers books have long been among the most successful titles in our program. The series will be continued with two new books every year.

CONTENT

A week-long class trip to Peru provides the setting, but it is entirely up to readers of this interactive story how the adventure will end. Around the campfire one night, a mysterious stranger talks about a map that shows the location of a previously unknown Maya religious site. Supposedly, he has access to that map. Each reader now has to decide whether this guy is an honest researcher or a criminal. Is it a good idea to join forces with him, or not? Any wrong moves could be disastrous!
